Who we are and what we do

Who are we?

The Charity Commission for Northern Ireland was established by Royal Assent in June 2009 to deliver the legislative requirements of the Charities Act (Northern Ireland) 2008. The Charities Act sets out what organisations must do to become charities, what obligations charities have to us, and details our powers and responsibilities.

What do we do?

We are responsible for granting charitable status, maintaining a public register of charities (once registration has commenced), investigating alleged misconduct or wrong-doing within charities, and facilitating and monitoring compliance with the Charities Act. We aim to promote:

- Public trust and confidence in charities;
- Charitable public benefit;
- Trustee compliance to their legal obligations;
- The effective use of charitable resources;
- The accountability of charities to donors, beneficiaries and the public.

Who do we work with?

We work with the general public, with charities, and also a wide range of public bodies and other regulators.

Our service standards

We aim to provide the highest possible standards and quality of service to all of our customers and stakeholders. We welcome feedback on our approach and are committed to continuous improvement.

In addition, all processes have their own standards for service and turnaround, in addition to the Commission's broad service standards set out below. These can be found in the guidance documents published on our website which are listed in this document at Appendix 1.
